OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR GOOD CROPS

Feeling of Optimism Prevails Among Bankers in Viewing the Future.

GENERAL TRADE SEASONABLE

Markets Are Somewhat in the Walting Mood, But With a Fair Volame of Trade,

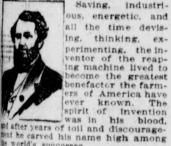

The local banking situation is reported by local financiers as solid, albeit a little slow. But whatever pessimism there may be is somewhat relieved by good reports coming in from all sections of the country of a better yield of the products of the soil than was anticipated some weeks ago. Messured in dollars and cents, t is probable that this year will be fully equal to any previous year. It is probable that the general results of the present situation at large will turn out to be better than earlier prospects indicated. But it must be confessed that business has slowed up somewhat, as the condition of the bank clearings will show, and taken on a waiting attitude. This is not peculiar to Uth alone, but prevails largely all over the commercial world. There seems to be a feeling that everywhere business has been carried on at too rapid a gait so it is time to call a balt along many lines. And yet the future is full of hope, with no sign whatever of any serious disturbance. The country is sound to the core, but sometimes a resting spell is necessary. probable that the general results

HENRY CLEW'S VIEW. Henry Clews in his last circular there says:

The crops, though needing rain in some sections, are progressing satisfactorily, and there is every indication that farmers both west and south will this year raise products quite equal in value to those of last year, and this in spite of the damage to againg wheat, the importance of and this in spite of the damage to spring wheat, the importance of which has been vastly overestimated. What is a loss of $190,000,000, the stimated damage to spring wheat, compared with the total value of farm products, which amounted to $150,000,000 in 1909. Apprehensions as to the abuse of power by the Interstate Commerce Commission are gradually dwindling away, and as railroad men recover from the panic which beset them when the bill was passed, they view the new bill with less and less apprehension. Some are less and less apprehension. Some are already co-operating cordially towards its enforcement. Nevertheless the railroad issues are not by any means settled. As for the tariff issue, that is still too far distant a question to have any effect upon the market at present. It is nearly three months before the fall congressional campaign will begin, and during that time the politicians may find it to the interest of their constituents to show more consideration for business affairs. and less apprehension eration for business affairs.

HARDWARE.

The hardware trade reports a slight falling off of business this month, but then that is to be expected at this time then that is to be expected at this time of the year, the dull season continuing through August. However, collections centinue to steadily improve, and no fault is found in this respect. Members of the trade claim greater care is taken in the matter of book accounts with them than is shown in other lines of business. There is a miscellaneous assortment of goods being shipped out. of pusiness. There is a miscellaneous assortment of goods being shipped out, with steady demand for wire, fencing, nails, etc. Orders continue to be received for fail delivery. The leather and harness branch of the trade is just at present a little quiet, but better conditions are anticipated shortly. The heavy machinery trade continues dull, but in camp supplies and lighter machine. but in camp supplies and lighter ma-chinery, business is picking up.

LUMBER.

The lumber trade reports no change of any note from conditions of the pre-vious week, though it must be said that shipments are slower than of late, and it is a little harder to get timber through.

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS

The wholesale dry goods trade reports a good feeling, with lively shipments begun to the retail trade over the intermountain country. The general business tone is healthy, particularly as there is increasing encouragelarly as there is increasing encouragement over the crop prospects. There are less apprehensions about disturbances in the cotton goods market. Jobbers in general report buying a little better, although cotton cloth prices are unsatisfactory, with curtailment more severe than is generally recognized. Print cloth stocks appear to be kept down, with sales small, but with no accumulation. On fine bleached cottons the market is quiet, with retailers buying goods about as they want them and showing no desire to anticipate. Business taken on wide dress ginghams has been good. Denims are stronger because of the excessive curtailment that is going on in the last few months. Heavy drills and sheetings are slow. Plaids have sold well for export, and fancy denims have been ings are slow. Plaids have sold well for export, and fancy denims have been in better request from cutters. Fine print goods are reported wanted. Dress goods manufacturers are woking for goods manufacturers are woking for early orders an specialities. Jobbers also report a greater field for domestic dress fabrics. Advance orders for the spring of 1911 on pleee dyed fabrics and novelty woven goods are being received at a fair price basis. Prices on women's wearing apparel for this fail and winter promise to average less than in many seasons. By making special prices on lines of summer dresses, skirts, light weight automobile coats, dusters and rainproof cloaks, specialty houses are clearing up their stocks. Tailored suits and separate skirts are being made up in plain stocks. Tailored suits and separatiskirts are being made up in plain cloths to an unusual extent for fall. The demand for silk piece goods for fall is reported stronger, as buyers need goods for early use. Satins, velvets and plushes are selling in increased volume for fall needs. On silk dress fabrics of staple pattern the garment trade is placing orders.

PUBLIC SERVICE REVENUES

Census Figures Give Interesting In sight Into Financial Administration of the Big Cities.

Washington, D. C., July 30, 1910 .-The total municipal receipts in 1998 by the 158 largest cities in the United States, each having an estimated population of 30,000 or more in 1908, amounted to $1,288,635,496, accord-amounted to $1,288,638,496, according to the census bureau's annual report on the statistics of cities for the year 1908, which is now in press.

Of the 158 largest cities in 1908; 24 were "no-license" or prohibition cities.
Of the 151 cities for which complete returns were available for 1908, 1907, and 1908, there were 10 "no-license" cities in 1905; 11 in 1907; and 21 in 1908.

The number of places licensed for the sale of intoxicating liquors by the drink was 71,366 in 1905, 67,131 in 1907, and 63,874 in 1908. This de-crease was not confined to any sec-tion of the country, but is apparent in every group of states except forcein every group of states except in cer-tain of the Rocky mountain states. The decrease has been most marked in the cities of the south Atlantic

The increase in the number of places selling by the drink from 1907 to 1908 was 100 per cent in Chelsea and Fitchburg, Mass., as these cities changed from "no license" to license. The only other cities showing an increase of as much as 10 per cent wilmington, 25.7 per cent; Newcastle, 16.7 per cent; and Spokane, 14.6 per cent.

LIQUOR LICENSE RECEIPTS IN-CREASED.

Despite a large decrease in the number of licensed places, the receipts from liquor licenses and taxes by the 151 cities mentioned above increased from $30,810,883 in 1905 to $39,-234,223 in 1907 and to $41,950,188 in 1908. The reason is a general increase in the amount of license fees.

The largest number of places licensed to sell by the drink in proportion to population is shown for the cities of Texas, Wisconsin, and New York; and the smallest number for the cities of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and of Texas, Wisconsin, and New York; and the smallest number for the cities of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and Nebraska. The smallest and largest number of inhabitants to each place seiling by the drink in cities of the different groups were as follows:

Three hundred thousand population and over—Milwaukee 142. Philadelphia 758; 109,000 to 300,000—Paterson 231, Fall River 1,042; 50,000 to 100,000—Hoboken 175, Lincoln 2,038; and 20,000 to 50,000—Gaiveston 138, and Chelsea 1,634.

To meet municipal payments the 158 cities mentioned collected $652,334,580 from taxes, licenses, special assessments and other revenues, and borrowed $500,905,414. The balance of the municipal receipts, amounting to $135,335,502, was made up of refunds, investments disposed of by city funds, and general transfers. The total municipal receipts, therefore, amounted to $1,288,635,496, and were made up of the following items: 37.2 her cent from taxes and other genamounted to $1,288,638,496, and were made up of the following items: $7.2 Der cent from taxes and other gen-eral revenues: 4 per cent from special assessments: 5.4 per cent from services performed by city department; 38.9 per cent from loans; and 14.5 per cent from refunds, general transfers, and miscellaneous sources.

REVENUES OF THE BIG CITIES.

Taxes and other general revenues, in-luding licenses and permits, fines and cluding licenses and permits, fines and forfeits, and subventions, grants, and gifts, were the chief source of revenue, for nearly every city. the general property tax formed the chief item of general revenue, and for the cities of Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, Louisiana, Virginia, and Georgia, comprised more than 75 per cent of the total.

Liquor licenses and taxes formed 13.4 per cent of the general revenues in the cities of Ohio and 10.2 per cent in the cities of California. New York City received $7.927.300; Chicago, $7.252.687; and Philadelphia, $1.969.459 from this source. The only other cities deriving

Business licenses formed 29.9 per cent of the general revenues in the cities of Alabama, while general property taxes formed only 52.1 per cent, an unusual condition among the cities of the United States. Business licenses also formed a large percentage, 14.5, of the general revenues of the cities of Georgia.

similar public improvements are paid for in the main from the general property tax, but there is a marked variation from this practise in several cities, especially of the west. Oklahoma City received more money from special assessments than from taxes and other general revenues, and New York City received $10,029,163 and Chicago $4.765,-393 from the same source.

The proportion of receipts from special assessments to receipts from taxes and other general revenues for specified cities was as follows: Oklahoma City, 164.1 per cent; Seattle, Takoma, and Spokane, Wash., 75.8, 68.5, and 38, respectively; Oakland, 48.9 per cent; Superior, Wis., 41.2 per cent; Joplin, 36.2 per cent; and Kansas City, Mo., 28.7 per cent. Comparatively low tax rates for most of these cities are accounted for by large receipts from special assessments.
